ANNOUNCES NEW ADDITION TO SALES TEAM

GerrityStone, New England’s premiere interior and exterior custom stonework specialist, announced the recent addition of Ryan McAllister as outside sales consultant.

Mr. McAllister’s prior experience includes business development and sales management positions in the construction industry; he has demonstrated skills in meeting project deadlines and staffing skilled tradesmen for construction clients. His OSHA 10 certification allows him to provide valuable insight to clients on project safety. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Communications from Assumption College.

“We are very excited to have Ryan join our sales team,” states CEO Tracy Streckenbach. “Ryan’s combined construction and sales expertise, coupled with his OSHA certification demonstrates a continued commitment to serving our builder partners from project inception to completion. Ryan will be an important asset both to GerrityStone and our trade partners.”
